EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS: Moving From Paper to Readiness Training

Return Engagement! Attendees will understand the requirements of an Emergency Operations Plan and CMS requirements for long-term care facilities. Additionally they will learn how to write a plan and put it into action. Participants will be taken through key functional components of Emergency Preparedness and how to apply them to their setting. The participants will explore the application of leadership planning, simulation, and readiness for Emergency Preparedness.

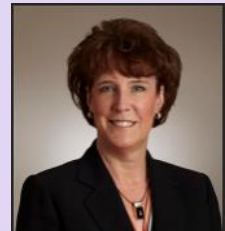

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

- Participants will understand the regulatory components of Emergency Preparedness
- Participants will explore actions needed beyond regulatory standards to ensure readiness
- Participants will have tangible action steps to implement within their area of accountability.

MARTIE MOORE
RN, MAOM, CPHQ
Chief Nursing Officer
Medline Industries

ABOUT OUR SPEAKER:

Martie is the Chief Nursing Officer (CNO) of Medline Industries. To date, Martie holds the Certified Professional in Healthcare Quality (CPHQ) certification. She serves as a Corporate Advisory Council Member for both the National Pressure Ulcer Advisory Panel (NPUAP) and American Nurses Association (ANA), and on the Dean's Advisory Board for the Univ. of Central Florida College of Nursing.

Prior to joining Medline, Martie was the CNO at Providence St. Vincent Medical Center in Portland, OR, a hospital within Providence Health & Services and a designated Magnet facility. In her leadership role as CNO, Moore led the facility through its third and fourth Magnet designation. Martie has also served as an adjunct faculty member at multiple universities, most recently at George Fox University in the Healthcare Administration Program. In Moore's early years, she received a Bachelor of Science in Nursing and her Master's in Organizational Management. Based upon her knowledge and expertise, Moore publishes and presents nationally and internationally on transforming healthcare.
